

50 Ideas for Under 50 People

New ideas when thinking about your next meeting, reward program or recognition event.

Use Theatre Style Seating

Use a theater style set up for your next meeting. Only seat people in every third seat ensuring adequate space between all attendees.

Meet

Afternoon Snack Delivery

Recognize employees hard work by walking around your office with a cart of cupcakes, or ice cream sandwiches in the winter - hot chocolate.

Recognize

Additional Time Off

Time is priceless. Reward employees for a job well done by giving them an additional afternoon or day off.

Reward

Lunch & Learn

Hold lunch and learn meetings. Offer pre-packaged boxed lunches in large spatially distanced meeting spaces providing a safe learning environment.

Meet

Celebrate Work Anniversaries

Let your employees know you remember how long they have been on board. Send a company email or give them a shout out during a team meeting.

Recognize

Memberships for Recreation

Reward employees with family passes to local museums, aquariums, zoos or recreation facilities. Encourage recreation, alleviate a family expense and support the community.

Reward

Clever Social Distancing Techniques

Incorporate clever and obvious social distance techniques such as floor stickers, arrows, pool noodles or hockey sticks. Ensure attendees see you taking precautions.

Meet

Curated Gift Box Delivery

Show appreciation to your team members. Send a curated gift box with items such as thermal tumblers, blankets, coffee and sweets.

Recognize

Invest on Your Employees Behalf

Take part in RRSP matching, investment funds or stock purchases on behalf of your employees.

Reward

Pop Up Brand Activations

Hold pop up brand activations for 35 people or less where media, influencers and invited guests partake in a scheduled activation.

Meet